tnumphes at the tilte and thanlsgyvmge the rvii of November 1594 for their maiesties xxxvii yeares Reigne,' that is, two days before the event happened

In all five entries the circumstances are similar; they show that entry in the Register was used to stake a claim in a piece of startling news, as well as to prevent an unlawful publication Unfortunately for the Elizabethan Journal most of these pamphlets and balkds have perished
